COL. GEORGE N. TERRY DEAD.

He Was the First Proprietor of the Hoffman House.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 2.—Col. George N. Terry, who was the first proprietor of the Hoffman House, New York, and who some years ago was prominent in financial circles of that city, died here last night at the home of a friend with whom he had lived for several years. His death was caused by heart failure. He was sixty-one years of age and unmarried. It was during his proprietorship of the Hoffman House that it became the favorite center for financial and sporting men.

Col. Terry accumulated a fortune and retired from the management and ownership of the hotel about thirty years ago. For some years he was associated with his brother in the hotel business in Lima, Ohio. He was also engaged at one time in stock raising in the south, and was one of the first importers of high class cattle from Europe. Col. Terry, some years ago, was well known throughout New England, and his body will probably be taken to Providence for interment.
